

Idiot's Grace, an independent grower and producer of wild fermented estate wines in Mosier, OR is seeking experienced and emotive individuals to guide visitors through their experience of our farm and winery. While centered on Tasting Room/Cellar Door operation, the positions allow the opportunity to lead Farm Walks and tastings and to contribute seasonally in the field and cellar.

Both full and part-time schedules are available. Week-ends May through September represent the peak of our year's business and availability therefore is mandatory for consideration.

The full-time position requires substantial industry experience and knowledge and includes a measure of supervisory capability. Some light administrative and marketing is involved, potentially heavier for the right candidate. Compensation is salary, commensurate with experience and the volume of responsibility assumed, supplemented by tips and incentives.

The part-time position represents an ideal introduction to this segment of the wine industry for someone with basic to intermediate experience/education and a desire to learn. Core time commitment is Fri-Sun, 20-24hrs per week. Compensation is hourly wage, DOE, supplemented by tips and incentives.

Both positions are guaranteed through October with the potential to become year-round.

Curious, conscious, humorous, humble, hard-working candidates are encouraged to submit their resumes to tastingroom@idiotsgrace.com. Please also include a few words on the question of "Why Wine?"
